

The Sanctuary

We celebrate a century of worship in the sanctuary. The first service was held March 1, 1890, with a basket dinner and the planting of family trees afterwards.

Since this congregation was first organized in 1857, it has worshipped in three buildings. The first was built about 1867 and was destroyed by a windstorm. In 1877, the Presbyterians and Baptists, who had lost their building to a fire, built a church together. It was a stone church with the inscription "Union Church 1877" over the doorway. This church is still in use today by the Baptists.

At the annual business meeting held March 3, 1889, it was agreed to build a new house of worship. The building committee consisted of C. J. Moore, H. L. Shumway, S. J. Yager and Samuel Moore. The church was built on the present site, an eight-acre tract of land given by J. S. Hibbard. It cost $3,300.00. It was heated by two coal stoves. The women's group gave a carbide lighting system in 1917. In 1925, Coleman gasoline lanterns were used. In 1938, the church was lighted by electric lights.

Sunday School classes all met in the sanctuary until 1929 when a story and one-half addition was built on the north side of the building, giving four much needed classrooms. A basement was also added where a furnace could be installed. In 1948, the upstairs was finished, giving two more classrooms. The church has continued to grow and add many improvements, many from memorial gifts.

In the Annual Report to Presbytery of 1901, the total communicants was 65. Today the total is 150. We pray that in the next 100 years the church will grow spiritually and be of service to all.

DURABILITY

DIGNITY

DEDICATION

That describes both the structure of the Sanctuary and the character of the people who worship here. It has been a long and historic journey. As we enter the 101st year of the Sanctuary and the 133rd year of the congregation, I have a sense of God's "Amazing Grace":

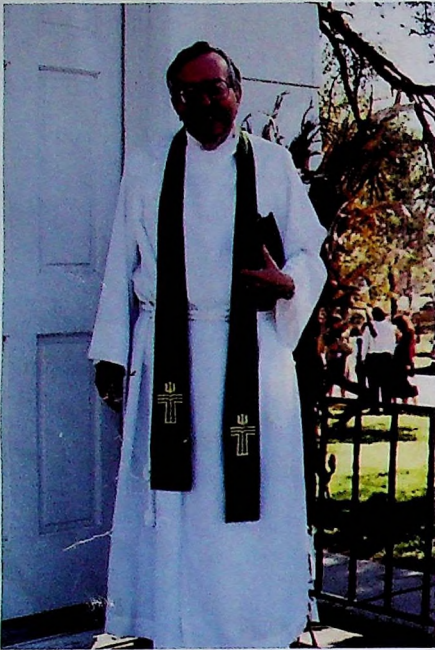

'Tis grace has brought us safe
thus far,

And grace will lead us home.

We've no less days to sing God's praise

Than when we'd first begun.

- Robert Duncan
